PRIVACY STATEMENT:

TCAA Inc collects the above details for its administrative purposes only. It does not release private information without the member's prior written consent, except as required by Law.

TAI CHI ASSOCIATION OF AUSTRALIA
CODE OF CONDUCT

1. Objective: To define acceptable conduct of members. The intent is that no member shall be of ill-repute that lowers the good standing of the TCAA and of the general membership body.
2. Applicability: This Code applies to all TCAA members and must be declared at membership application and reaffirmed at every membership renewal.
3. Code of Conduct:

Every member shall comply with the following codes:

 - a. Be supportive of the learning and development of Tai Chi Chuan, and of the TCAA.
 - b. Have not and shall not engage in the making or publicising of derogatory or slanderous remarks about the TCAA or other sports organisations or about individual members of such organisations in the print media, radio, television, internet or any means open to the public except that any information provided as proceedings in a court of law be exempt.
 - c. Confidentiality. Not release into the public arena, except as required by law, any information from proceedings of complaints within the TCAA about the conduct of another organisation or the TCAA or individual members of these organisations.
 - d. Have not and shall not engage in criminal activities.
 - e. Extended Applicability. Breach of a similar code of conduct whilst a member of another affiliated organisation is included as non-compliance with these codes.
4. Member Responsibility:
 - a. Where a member is aware that s/he is not compliant with these Codes, the member shall voluntarily withdraw from TCAA, failing which another member may raise a complaint.
 - b. Any member may raise a complaint against an existing member in accordance with the procedure in the TCAA Constitution.
 - c. Upon cancellation or normal cessation of membership, the ex-member shall cease forthwith to use any logo or title of the TCAA, nor present himself/herself as a member of the TCAA.
5. Committee Responsibility:
 - a. The TCAA Management Committee shall terminate the membership of a member it considers to be in breach of this Code of Conduct. The procedure in the TCAA Constitution shall be applied.
